

TrustLaw

Thomson Reuters Foundation

Eligibility Criteria For TrustLaw Membership

Please see the following criteria you need to meet in order to access the application:

Law Firms, Lawyers, and In-house Legal Teams

- If required in your country, you must be registered to practice law with the relevant authority, such as your state's bar association or national certification body for lawyers, such as the Law Society;
- You may need to provide references or your practicing certificate, if requested by the TrustLaw team;
- You must be prepared to undertake TrustLaw projects on a pro bono basis;
- We are not able to offer insurance for in-house lawyers so you would need to arrange your own insurance through a law firm or your company, if insurance is required in the country where you practice.

Individual Lawyers

- Individual lawyers who wish to apply for membership should first investigate whether their firm or organisation is already a member of TrustLaw, or whether they would like to become a member. We are not able to offer insurance for individual practitioners so you would need to arrange your own insurance through a law firm or company, if insurance is required in the country where you practice;
- TrustLaw reserves the right to accept individual lawyers in our discretion;
- You may need to provide references or your practicing certificate, if requested by the TrustLaw team.

Click here to learn more or contact TrustLaw at trustlaw@thomsonreuters.com